Philanthropic support to Hudson Valley Community College and its charitable foundation totaled more than $1.4 million in 2005-06; that figure represents a 53 percent increase in giving over the prior year.

Cash and in-kind donations came from corporations, faculty, staff, alumni and charitable foundations, and benefited a variety of the college’s academic programs, including high-cost programs in the allied health and technologies. Donations also funded more than $289,000 in scholarships, ranging from $200 to full tuition, to more than 130 students studying everything from Computer Information Systems to Physical Education.

Corporate gifts totaled $533,000, which is nearly 40 percent of all charitable support to the college; that mirrors giving to community colleges and public institutions nationwide. Hedley Cadillac Oldsmobile of Troy made the largest corporate gift, donating automotive equipment valued at approximately $120,000 to benefit the college’s automotive programs.

General Motors and DaimlerChrysler made gifts to support the automotive programs that they partner with the college to offer, as did AutoMate, a Clifton Park-based business that develops automotive dealership software packages. Albany Medical Center contributed $55,800 for its scholarship program for students pursuing health care-related associate’s degrees, and U.W. Marx Construction Company supported the college’s Annual Fund with a gift of $10,000 and supported the creation of a Construction Technology Endowment with an additional $10,000 gift.

In 2005-06, the Foundation also received the single-largest gift from an alumnus who was a member of the college’s first graduating class. AT&T retiree Robert Pratt ’55 donated two life insurance policies valued at $480,000, and proceeds from the policies will be used in three ways:

- To enhance a general endowment to benefit the college ($360,000);
- To establish an endowment to benefit the college’s Electrical Construction and Maintenance program ($100,000); and
- To establish an endowed fund that will produce a President’s Circle-level gift to the Foundation’s Annual Fund each year in perpetuity. President Circle gifts total at least $1,000 annually ($20,000). Gifts to the Annual Fund are unrestricted, and allow the college to fund unmet needs and seize unexpected opportunities.

The Foundation also received support from other charitable foundations, including $64,000 from the Second Chance Scholarship Foundation to benefit the Foundation’s Second Chance Scholarship Fund, which provides merit-based scholarships to students who have overcome tremendous personal obstacles to continue their education.

Founded by Angelo and Kathleen Mastrangelo, formerly of the Capital Region and now of Binghamton, the Second Chance Foundation has provided scholarships to more than 400 Hudson Valley students to date. The Second Chance Foundation is poised to surpass the $1-million giving mark in Spring of 2007, and an event is planned on campus for June 7, 2007, to celebrate that milestone.

Unrestricted gifts from individuals and corporations to the college’s Annual Fund totaled $229,461, the most successful year ever for the fund, which assists the college in meeting unmet needs and seizing unexpected opportunities.
Citizens, NBT support scholarships for College in the High School program

The Citizens Bank Foundation and NBT Bank both made gifts in 2005-06 to benefit the College in the High School program, which allows high school students to take college-level courses and earn college credits during their regular school day.

The Citizens Bank Foundation donated $10,000, while NBT Bank donated $5,000; both gifts funded scholarships for students and created the basis of an endowment for the College in the High School program. Thus far, 31 students have received scholarships.

Hudson Valley has offered College in the High School courses since 1995, and in the past year, enrollment has increased 32 percent. During the 2005-06 academic year, 2,764 high school students were enrolled in the courses.

The college partners with 28 high schools to offer the courses. South Colonie, Troy, and Averill Park high schools have the most students participating in the program.

Dental Hygiene program endowment garners support

The Foundation has created a first-of-its kind endowment designed to ensure that the college has the resources it needs to sustain its high-cost, high-demand Dental Hygiene program.

The endowment has attracted more than $210,000 in commitments to date, raised through honorary committee memberships, pledges and sponsorships of the college's first-ever Celebration of Excellence gala. Each subsequent gala will recognize, and raise money for, endowments to benefit the college's high-cost, high-demand academic programs in the allied health and technology fields.

“We are extremely fortunate to have tremendous support from the college, our Advisory Board members and from members of the dental community, many of whom work with our students as adjunct faculty,” Dental Hygiene Department Chair Judith Romano said. “It is through this generous support that we will be able to continue to grow and provide the dental community with highly skilled and knowledgeable dental hygienists and assistants.”

The only program of its kind within a 100-mile radius and one of only nine programs in the state, the Dental Hygiene program is the college’s most expensive to offer: the college spends $44,082 to educate one Dental Hygiene student during the course of the two-year program, while receiving only $15,890 in tuition and government revenue.

Each year, the college receives approximately 300 applications for the program, but it can serve only 90 students – 45 first-year and 45 second-year – at any given time. There also is a shortage of qualified hygienists in the state, according to the state Labor Department.

The endowment, the ultimate goal for which is $1 million, will be used to meet a variety of needs, including equipment and curriculum development. If it continues to grow, it may ultimately allow the college to fund the hiring of additional faculty, which would allow for expansion of the program.

Nearly 50 dentists and dental practices from throughout the Capital Region sponsored the gala or joined the honorary committee, which was chaired by Dr. Robert H. Hill II, a practicing dentist who serves as chairman of the college’s Board of Trustees.

Dental Hygiene student Thuy Chung shows 4-year-old RoseMary Flavin how to brush with the help of a stuffed animal during Give Kids a Smile Day, a national initiative to raise awareness for the need for early and consistent dental care for all children.

Also, the Third District Dental Society, Fourth District Dental Society and the New York State Dental Association and its charitable foundation each have pledged $25,000, with the Fourth District’s gift made in honor of Dr. Robert C. and Lilian “Sisty” Wescott.

The college will recognize those gifts by naming operatories in the college’s 36-station Dental Hygiene Clinic after the donors. Each year, the clinic serves more than 1,800 children and adults, many of whom are uninsured or elderly.

Other significant commitments from organizations or individuals include: $10,000 each from Dr. Robert K. DeLuke, in memory of Dr. Dominick J. DeLuke; and Dr. Christopher Walsh. DeLuke practices in Schenectady and Walsh practices in Albany.

Online giving made easy

The Foundation now provides donors with a safe, secure way to make their Annual Fund gifts online. Gifts to the Annual Fund provide scholarships, classroom equipment, technology upgrades, curriculum development, funding for new academic initiatives, campus beautification projects and more.

About the Hudson Valley Community College Foundation

The mission of the Hudson Valley Community College Foundation is to foster enduring relationships that build advocacy and support of Hudson Valley Community College. It does so, in large part, by securing private funds to supplement the college’s traditional revenue sources.

Since 1983, the Hudson Valley Community College Foundation has provided support for the college and its students. Founded by a dedicated group of volunteer leaders who understood the need for affordable access to educational opportunities, a proud tradition of commitment and caring began and remains today at the core of the Foundation’s mission.

A not-for-profit, independent 501(c)(3) corporation founded in 1983, the Foundation is governed by a Board of Directors who participate in and oversee the Foundation’s philanthropic activities, which are designed to produce a positive and beneficial impact upon the college, its students, and the communities it serves.

While committed to raising funds for student scholarships, the Foundation secures private resources to provide support for faculty enrichment programs, new and innovative academic initiatives, student development activities, enhanced student support services, cultural programs, equipment purchases, facility improvements and technology enhancements. The Foundation has supported many initiatives through the generous support and assistance of faculty, staff, alumni, friends, and corporate partners in the community.

Economic uncertainty and increased demands on tax dollars are diminishing public support for community colleges. As a result, community colleges are turning to private philanthropy as a necessary resource to ensure continued excellence in teaching and learning. Faced with dwindling public funding, the college faces the need to diversify funding streams in order to prepare students to meet the challenges of the future and become the leaders of tomorrow.

In 2005-06, Hudson Valley Community College and its Foundation enjoyed philanthropic support that exceeded $1.4 million.
